GLASMAN ROASTED FOR OPPOSING FUSION

The Progressive mass meeting, called for this afternoon in the City hall was not largely attended and it was after 7 o'clock before the business of the meeting was taken up. At the time appointed there were only about a dozen persons present, so County Chairman G. J. S. Abels deferred calling the meeting to order.

The purpose of the meeting was to elect 12 delegates to the Progressive state mass meeting in Salt Lake, which is to consider the nominating of a United States senator and two congressmen.

Later, when the meeting was called to order, there were 31 present. F. J. Hendershot was elected chairman and Benjamin Critchlow secretary. After reading the call, it was announced on the suggestion of Mr. Abels, that those of the city in attendance select the names of 30 delegates for the state convention and that those of the country select 22, and the convention proceeded to make the selections.

Chairman Hendershot stated to the meeting, before beginning with the business of selecting delegates, that he desired the assemblage to remain in session a short time after the delegates were named to hear from some of the leading Progressives present as to the outlook for the organization. He said that he was glad that there are still some who had not followed the leader away.

It was not clear as to who Mr. Hendershot meant, as he afterwards associated the name of Colonel Roosevelt with that of William Glasman, but the presumption among the Progressives was that he had reference to Mr. Glasman.

The speaker said that Mr. Glasman seemed to be greatly opposed to amalgamation with the Democratic party, but Mr. Hendershot intimated that fusion with the Democrats would not be a bad move.

MANY OFFENDERS IN POLICE COURT TODAY

The municipal court session this morning lasted nearly two hours and was graced by the presence of T. Samuel Brownings, commissioner of public safety.

Vay Corey was the first to answer the roll and pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy. His trial was set for Tuesday morning. Ed Fitzgerald pleaded guilty to the same charge and was sentenced to serve five days.

Charles Dana, who was halted for breaking the traffic ordinance by speeding a motorcycle, was fined $3. George Reid, Frank Nolan, Frank Williams, Morris Hanauer and Tom Mullen were tried on charges of vagrancy. All of the men are strangers in the city and were arrested on suspicion of being members of a gang of "phony" jewelry peddlers. Some of the jewelry and some cheap spectacles were found on Nolan, Mullen and Williams, when they were arrested, and petitions for assistance were found on Hanauer and Reid. Nolan entered a plea of guilty and the other four pleaded not guilty. Nolan, Mullen and Williams each received a 10-day sentence. Hanauer explained that he was suffering of an incurable disease and was asking for assistance to get to a sanitarium at Hot Springs, Arkansas. He was turned over to the city physician for medical attention.

Reid, in telling his story, waxed eloquent. He said that he came from California about a week ago on the "cushions," at a cost of $30. On Wednesday he went down to the river to wash his clothes and to "cook up a feed." While he was there, a "cripple" came up to his fire and asked him if he would wash a shirt for him. He did so and then asked the cripple to share the lunch. The got into a conversation and the cripple showed him the petition which the officers found after they had arrested him.

He went back up town and on Thursday went down by the river again. While he was there he found the petition laying on the ground and picked it up, intending to return it to the cripple, if he should chance to see him again.

After thoroughly "digesting" the tale, Judge Reader stated that it sounded rather romantic, but he allowed Reid to go on a 180-day suspended sentence.

Jennie Walker, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy Wednesday morning, and Ella Thomas, who pleaded guilty to the same charge at the same time, had their cases brought before the court again this morning. They both are colored.

The Walker woman in telling her story said that she just happened to be in the Thomas woman's room at the time she was arrested. Officer Peterson testified that she had been "hanging" around the streets without visible means of support for some months. After hearing the testimony the judge gave the Walker woman a six months' suspended sentence and sentenced Ella Thomas to serve 10 days in jail.

Mrs. Daisy Cahoon, who was arrested with Bessie LeRoy in the Central rooming house on Wednesday night on the charge of selling liquor without a license was found guilty and sentenced to serve 30 days. The case of Bessie LeRoy was called yesterday and she forfeited $50 bail, instead of $10, as reported.

F. Dalton left a horse untied yesterday in the business district of the city and was assessed $3 this morning for the offense.

LANTERNS HAD BEEN PILED IN THE ROAD

Travelers were probably saved from being seriously injured last night by the quick action of Night Desk Sergeant L. H. Carver of the local police department. He received a telephone call from the vicinity of Twenty-third street and Madison avenue, about 11:30 o'clock, the party on the other end of the line stating that the red lanterns, which had been placed as danger signals near the post holes dug yesterday on Twenty-third street, between Madison and Jefferson avenues, had been removed.
